

The Future of Legal Services: Expert Analysis

This new report from Managing Partner features the sought-after views and predictions of renowned legal services specialists on how market trends and regulatory changes are currently shaping the future of legal services:

- Author of the Hunt review on the regulation of law firms, Lord Hunt of Wirral;
- Specialists on law firm finances – Dan DiPietro of The Law Firm Group Citi Private and Peter Scott of Peter Scott Consulting;
- Legal consultants – Alan Hodgart of H4 Partners, Tony Williams of Jomati Consultants LLP and legal technology writer Charles Christian;
- Specialist regulatory solicitor Frank Maher of Legal Risk LLP;
- President of the Law Society – Robert Heslett; and
- Senior and managing partners – Joy Kingsley of Pannone and Sir Nigel Knowles of DLA Piper.

Not only do they reveal their visions for the future of the law firm and the 'new world' of legal services, but they provide expert advice on how to tackle the foreseeable challenges and opportunities.

"This once-in-a-lifetime revolution in legal practice is not just about 'Tesco law'; it is about issues as diverse as the risk of your best staff being poached by corporate bodies offering better pay and conditions, new ways to raise investment in your firm – or your competitors' firms – consumer-friendly compensation schemes with substantial jurisdiction, and a new era of more onerous regulation with a heavy burden of compliance."

Frank Maher, Legal Risk

While no crystal ball, The Future of Legal Services reveals the thoughts and perspectives of the legal world's best-known experts, on where the legal service industry is heading.
